Clicking the blue down arrow will produce the dropdown list.

(The menus are "accordian" style dropdowns: instead of covering the other categories it pushes them down.)

The dropdown list will feature sub-categories to organize the ads into groups. Clicking on a sub-group will replace the header with the sub-group and the sub groups with the ad categories

The ad categories here work like they do on the current site, taking you to the ad listings. A left facing arrow appears; clicking it returns you to the first dropdown list.

This is information about the bike, or at least it was. I cut it out to make room for the border and couldn't find it again, so here's this. The rest of this is just auto-generated lorem ipsum. Avoid scams, deal locally. Beware wiring (e.g. Western Union), cashier checks, money orders, shipping.

I combined thumb and gallery view into the new page, and moved the current "thumb view" to list.
The new "thumb" view has the gallery's large images and the thumb/list views' large text.
Because of how little space the current thumb view's images take up, it is redundant to include both it and list view, so list view would be replaced.
